DESCRIPTION

By request, we have developed a workshop to update hospital and nursing home staff on the recommended practices and guidelines concerning the preparation and use of sterile supplies. This will be an opportunity to ask questions concerning infection control, all sterile supplies and equipment. This workshop should be of interest to anyone working with sterile supplies and equipment whether it be in direct patient care or in the OR, Central Supply or Materials Management.

OBJECTIVE

Identify and become more aware of concerns for sterilization processing of medical devices and equipment essential for patient care procedures.

PLEASE NOTE

The speaker requests that you come prepared with questions. She stresses that questions and discussion will be encouraged throughout the presentation. Tape recorders may be used if desired.

ABOUT THE SPEAKER

Peggy Ryan, R.N., an independent professional nurse consultant, accepts assignments as an educator and advisor to hospitals and the hospital industry regarding sterilization processing, aseptic techniques, infection control, and the design and operation of hospital centralized processing and distribution systems. She is a graduate of St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, Denver, Colorado, and has advanced education at the University of Colorado. Her hospital nursing career included extensive experience in the operating room, delivery room, and emergency services, central service, and material management. Ms. Ryan has authored many articles on central service functions and has served either as an officer or an advisor to several professional organizations. Ms. Ryan presents approximately 100 workshops per year for hospital personnel. You will find her well informed and a warm and interesting speaker.
